FRIDAY.....FEBRUARY 16, 1883.

THE ADMISSION OF DAKOTA.

The Democratic opposition to the admission of Dakota, or the southern half of it, as a State, is purely partisan and as purely maligant. They have urged no reason against it which is not false or puerile on its face, and the real objection they have to it is the fear that it will cast a Republican vote and strengthen the Republican party in Congress.

The southern half of Dakota is entitled to admission as a State upon every rule under the enabling act which governs admission. It has an area of 75,000 square miles, nearly as much as Illinois and Indiana. It has a population of over 200,000, and next year will have over 300,000. It cast at the last election 30,000 votes in round numbers. It is rapidly filling up and growing in wealth. The Indians have recently been removed from the vast tract included in the old Sioux Reservation, and white people from the North will soon occupy that rich territory in large numbers. Its population is already larger than that of many States when they were admitted, and it is increasing in a manner unprecedented in the history of this country. The Land Office can hardly accommodate applicants, and emigrants from abroad are turning their faces in this direction by hundreds and thousands. It already has more population than Nevada, Florida, Vermont, New Hampshire, or Delaware, and next year it will have more than Rhode Island.

The only reason that the Democrats urge against the admission is that the southern half of the State has not sufficient population. This can be easily ascertained. Let them so amend the enabling act that a census can be taken next July. If it shall then be found that the population is sufficient, on the ratio of representation, to entitle it to a Representative, let it be admitted; and if it is not, then let it stay out and wait another year. If it have such a population, there is no reason for keeping it out. Its people are law-abiding; they have no institutions which are incompatible with Republicanism; they are desirous of coming in, and have made application. But, say the Democrats, Dakota shall not come in unless New Mexico, Montana, and Washington Territories are desirous of coming in, and if they have the requisite population under the enabling act, let them come in. There is no reason why they should not. But this is not the real reason of their hostility. They fear the political consequences. They are afraid that Dakota may send two Republican Senators to Congress, and that the new State may be Republican. Such a position as this they cannot afford to take. It will react upon them in a manner they will regret, and it will place them before the country in an attitude of partisan meanness more contemptible than any they have yet occupied.

What is claimed to be the largest pension paid to one person in the United States has been settled in St. Louis. The pensioner was honorably discharged from the army in 1864, on account of injuries, and in four days thereafter he became totally blind, and has so remained ever since. His case has been pending for sixteen years, and in the meantime pensions for persons injured as he was have been several times increased. The rate was originally $18 per month. It was then increased, respectively, to $24, $33, $50 and finally to $72. The aggregate sum accruing to date, and which he received, was $9,063 47. He will hereafter receive, during his life, $72 per month.

There seems to be a temporary let up, at least, in the rush of emigrants to this country, and from present appearances the large figures of 1882 will not be approximated this year. The arrivals at New York during January were about 30 per cent. less than in the same month of last year, and arrivals at some other ports show a corresponding falling off. There may be a large number of arrivals this year but 1881 and 1882 were exceptional years and their figures will not probably be reached.

The New York Herald says a defunct mining camp—meaning the State of Nevada—is now represented in the Senate of the United States by two Senators. The Herald is mistaken. Senator Jones is the only Nevada Senator in Washington. Senator Fair is at San Francisco.

It is stated that Parnell, Sexton, and probably Egan, of the Irish Land League, will visit the United States in March.

The State Senate is doing well with the Constitutional Amendments.

The California Assembly has rejected the sawdust bill.

A VICTORY FOR THE TYPOS.

[Carson Appeal, 15th.]

Westerfield's bill providing for the printing and distribution of the Statutes of Nevada was killed by a unanimous vote in the House yesterday, because the bill gave the printing of the Statutes to a San Francisco firm. For the past week the Nevada printers have been industriously working to defeat the bill for obvious reasons. The Printing Committee will offer a substitute tomorrow providing for the printing of the Statutes at home. Mr. Westerfield in drawing up his bill framed it so as to have the work done as the 16th Nevada Statutes, which were printed by the firm of Bancroft & Co., and not through any antagonism to the association which embraces the printers and newspaper men of Nevada. After being made aware of the error he favored the change and will support the substitute.

Railroad to the North.

[Tuscarora Times-Review.]

The day is not far distant when the fuel used in this camp will have to be brought from the railroad or by a new railroad from this point to the pine forests of Oregon. The permanence of this camp is, we believe, fully established, and as long as the mines produce ore, the mills must run, and every hour consumes numerous cords of fuel. There is but one solution to the question, and that is in the construction of a railroad, either from this point to the pine regions of the Blue Mountains, there to connect with the Oregon system of railway, or from this point to connect with the Central Pacific. The most natural connection we think is with the former point. We could do very well with a road to the north. Wood from the Blue Mountains by rail could be laid down for eight dollars a cord, taking as a basis for the estimate the rates demanded in Virginia City for wood brought from the Sierras. The supply from the north would be inexhaustible, while from the south, unless it was brought from the Sierras, it would be only a question of time, and brief at that, when it would give out. If we could ignore the existence of the Central Pacific, and form a connection with the Northern route, and the several Oregon branches, a vast market would be easily reached. Grain, vegetables and fruit and cattle, with all Eastern productions and manufactures would be at our very door, and perhaps we might be designated as a "competitive point." The cost of a narrow gauge road to the north would be at the minimum for such constructions. After leaving Deep Creek until the timber region is met, there is not a hill to be surmounted or a stream of any magnitude to be bridged. To railroad men and capitalists the field is certainly a very inviting one, and we believe are long the matter will receive particular attention.

Our Indians.

[Tuscarora Times-Review.]

From all we can learn by conversation with the leading Indians belonging to the Duck Valley Reservation, we believe that under the frugal and careful management of Agent Mayhugh, notwithstanding the severity of the Winter, they have on hand a plenty of provisions, and are passing the Winter more comfortably than some whites. Why the Indians around Walker and Pyramid lakes should suffer is beyond our ken. Yet we read that Representative Cassidy, of Nevada, called upon the Secretary of War and laid before him the resolutions adopted by the Nevada Legislature, asking that rations be given Indians in Nevada, who are starving, to tide them over the present inclement season, when it is impossible for them to procure subsistence by hunting. We do not believe in tiding those people over the few cold months of the year. Let them suffer for a while, and perhaps habits of economy might be acquired. If their simple mode of living with every mountain and every stream to hunt and fish in, with their regular annuities, will not keep them alive, let them starve.

The Sacramento Record-Union says: "The Civil Service Reform Act, now law, prohibits the recommendation of any person for any office or place to any appointing power." It is not quite so strong as that. That portion of the Pendleton Act to which the Record-Union refers merely says that no recommendation of any person who shall apply for office under this Act, which may be given by a Senator or Representative, shall be received, except as to the character or residence of the applicant. For offices not coming within the scope of the Act the recommendations of Senators and Congressmen will undoubtedly be as effectual as ever.—S. F. Alta.

A Varied Performance.

Many wonder how Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ.

Satisfaction for Ten.

In our family of ten for over two years Parker's Ginger Tonic has cured headache, malaria and other complaints so satisfactorily that we are in excellent health and no expense for doctors or other medicines.—Chronicle.

THE NEW JUDICIARY.

The Debate in the Senate on the Proposed Change.

In Thursday's Carson Appeal we find the following report of the debate in the Senate on Foley's amendment to the Constitution relative to the Judiciary system:

The author estimated that the system would save the State at least $25,000 per annum in salaries. The States which had adopted it found it very successful. It would also be a vast saving to litigants. The salary offered, $7,000 per annum for ten years, would enable the State to procure the very best legal talent. The present Supreme Judges heartily endorse the measure, as more economical and beneficial. He had not heard a dissenting voice from any legal gentleman. He could see no reason why this question should not be submitted to the people.

Hammond doubted its expediency and thought the Senator had failed to prove it an economical measure. Through the Mississippi States it had been tried and had been given up in favor of the Supreme Court system. He did not know that any State had given up the Supreme Court for the old Circuit Court system. This would make of the Chief Justice an autocrat. Judges were only men after all and subject to human weaknesses. When such a revolution was contemplated in the judiciary it should be carefully considered in every particular.

Schooling was not prepared to vote for such a change for the reason which had been so ably stated.

Westerfield asked if a judge elected under one system would be more honest than if chosen by the other.

Hammond declined to answer questions, as he disliked personal debate.

Hobart held that this measure is both expedient and economic. The argument of frailty in judges applied to judges of all grades. He would trust to the judges in banc as readily as to the three Supreme Judges. All the lawyers he had talked with frankly admitted that it would have a tendency to elevate the judiciary. He believed it was in the interest of good government.

Parker could not support the resolution. He was here in Territorial days when that system was in vogue and knew that three judges were forced to resign. It was considered bad in its effects.

Hobart said the judges referred to were appointed as reward for political favors by the President, and not selected by the people. It was no wonder they fell down. Give the people a chance and we might look for a pure Bench.

Dennis favored the change. First, because it was a direct saving of $25,000 in salaries, and secondly, because it had proved good in older States. Business will be transacted more rapidly. He believed it would be of essential value to the State.

Marker would vote for the resolution, but thought ten years too long a term of office.

Rockhill liked the project as economical, but the term was too long because there might be incompetent men elected. He moved to amend by making the term six years. Lost.

Rockhill moved an amendment providing for election of the District Judge by districts. Lost.

McConnell moved to make the term ten instead of six years. Lost.

Resolution passed; ayes 11, noes 3.

Marsh's Washoe Chief.

The Carson Index reporter has been to Keyser & Elrod's corral to take a look at the fine eight months bull that has been sold by Mr. W. J. Marsh, of Carson Valley, to Mr. Isaac Irwin, of Duckwater, Nye county. The animal is spotted red and white with roan—a true indication of thorough blood. He is a square built animal, has a fine eye and is full of spirit and ambition. The name by which this calf will be known on the herd books will be that of Washoe Chief. He was sired by 3d Duke of Paris, a red bull of immense size, (tracing in two crosses to the celebrated Fordham Duke of Oxford which was used with great success upon the famous New York Mill Duchesses and also on the Duchesses of Airdrie by that prince of breeders, A. J. Alexander, of Woodburn farm, Kentucky); dam, 2d Washoe Princess, by Mars 8th, a son of the 16th Duke of Airdrie (bred at Woodburn, Kentucky). The last named cow is of the Indian Princess tribe; a family of short horns which is making a fine record in producing animals of great merit. Mr. Marsh claims for his short horns that they are all of the very purest breeding and closely related to the highest price animals that have been sold in America—many of which brought under the hammer from $5,000 to $23,000 each. The Index says it shall look forward with interest to the products of Mr. Marsh's fine herd of short horns which his enterprise has transplanted to our Nevada climate. Such sales as the above are noteworthy and will be followed up with great interest by those who know and appreciate the value of pure blood and judicious breeding. Mr. Marsh is thoroughly posted on the short horn pedigrees and evidently understands his business.

A Card.

EVANS' RANCH, Feb'y 14th.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—The JOURNAL of this date contains an allusion to the suit brought by myself and wife against Mr. Alvaro Evans. Permit me to offer some corrections, to-wit: Suit is brought for malicious libel as well as slander, with damages placed at sixty thousand dollars, instead of at twenty thousand, as stated.

Yours respectfully,

A. B. EVANS.

IMPROVEMENT OF NEVADA WATER SOURCES.

Surveyor General Hatch's Views Upon the Subject.

"Nature has provided us with a pure and healthy atmosphere, with sunny skies and propitious seasons; but she has been less lavish with the element of water. The Sierras, with their reservoirs of snow, send to our western valleys a Spring-tide of this joyful element, often too bountiful to suit the philosophy of the practical-minded granger, who sees no way to utilize it, for it is not needed to quicken the germs of seeds yet unsown; but when he views the receding mantle of snow and the craggy peaks of the Sierras showing no caps of white; when the volume of the river torrent dwindles to a mere brook; when the ditches run low and the ominous dark green color settles upon his fair fields, betokening drouth, he begins to think, and finally to declare his belief that sometime in the future some wise man from the East or the West will arise in the State Legislature, or in the halls of Congress, and propose some means for locking up and retaining the

REDUNDANT WATERS OF THE SPRING-TIME

In the lakes and valleys, gorges and dells in the rock-bound fastnesses of the mountains. Let no one say: "There are no water-ways in Nevada worth damming or improving." Our Representative in Congress should reconsider. The time is at hand when some means other than private enterprise must be provided to husband the waters that run to waste at a time when they cannot be utilized. Water, to our people, is as valuable as the gold we dig from our mines. Farming, stock-raising and every other industry our parched and arid State invites, cannot exist without water. In proportion, as we increase its supply, will all industries increase and thrive. The ancients, not through individual enterprise, but through the genius and enterprise of their governments, erected vast reservoirs and aqueducts for retaining water for irrigating purposes. The crumbling ruins of these works are still visible in Palestine, Arabia and Egypt, where the climate and soil is similar to ours. While their

WATER-WAYS AND RESERVOIRS EXISTED,

These nations were prosperous and powerful, but when they fell into decay, the people relapsed into barbarism. At one time in the world's history, no nation, save those who cultivated the soil by means of irrigation, possessed a written language. In Persia, India and China, extensive canals, aqueducts and reservoirs still exist, and are used for conveying water for irrigating the soil. In Italy, Spain and Southern France, extensive waterworks were erected ages ago for the same purpose. Mexico and South America, even since Castilian genius and intellect were absorbed and degraded by the native races, have maintained and reconstructed the canals and aqueducts originally constructed by Cortez and Bolivar and their immediate successors. In fact, nearly one-half the nations of the world, in times of their greatest prosperity, have cultivated or are now cultivating, the soil by means of irrigation. The system is

COMPARATIVELY NEW

To the American people, who have been reared in that favored portion of our country, where seasonable rains have rendered irrigation unnecessary. The acquisition of the new country lying between the Rocky Mountains and the Sierra Nevadas, which, in the memory of many, was marked on the maps as 'The Great American Desert,' 'Unexplored Regions,' and 'Great Salt Lake Basin,' has been carved into States and Territories, and settled by people who are not behind the age in point of intelligence and enterprise, and who believe they understand what is required to develop the vast resources of this wonderful country. It would seem reasonable that a people so situated, and who, laboring under great difficulties, have succeeded in developing resources that have enriched the nation in times of her greatest need, should be entitled to a share of the immense sums of money appropriated for the improvement of water-ways in older and richer States, and that such share should be expended in improving and enhancing the water supply of their State. No expenditure of Government funds in the interest of Nevada can be so well applied as for this purpose. A memorial to Congress and an appeal to our representatives in this behalf may be attended with good results."

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer at once—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle.
